AUTO THEVES BECOMING SPECIALISTS-IN LINE

Not Only Strip Cars, but Take Parts of Mechanism, Claim

Automobile thieves are becoming specialists in their chosen profession, according to police records, which show that while some take machines in their entirety, others carry away only parts and accessories.

During the last week accessories thieves raided three different cars in the city. Two of the machines were stripped of several of their most important attachments and in the third theft, reported last night, the robber was satisfied with carrying away only the generator.

The theft was reported to Deputy Sheriff George W. Deal by Charles Shaw, 181 1/2 N. Main-st., who stated that the generator was taken from his Ford while it was parked in an alley in the N. Main-st. business district.

Authorities are of the opinion that there are several persons, familiar with automobile mechanics, who are carrying on the thieving operations.

USED CAR COMPANY HAS SMALL LOSS FROM FIRE

Prompt work on the part of firemen prevented a serious fire at the building occupied by the Dependable Used Car Co. at the intersection of Olney-av. and W. Center-st. at noon today when sparks from a bonfire in an adjoining yard set fire to the roof. The blaze which had gained much headway when discovered by a passerby who turned in an alarm, was put out by firemen from the central and No. 2 stations, with a small loss.

The building was formerly the Wesley M. E. Church and the old shingles provided material for a serious fire had it not been for the prompt work of firemen. The building is the property of County Treasurer James Messenger.

Perry D. Brady is defendant in a suit for divorce started in the court of common pleas today by Mary B. Brady in which she charges extreme cruelty as grounds for a decree.

This suit follows a suit of Brady's residence property on Uncapher-av. last Saturday by Sheriff Deal, the sale being the outcome of a mortgage foreclosure action brought by a local bank.

After payment of all liens against the property, the sheriff will have a balance of about $300 due Brady and in her petition Mrs. Brady asks that this money be awarded to her as alimony. She names Sheriff Deal as party defendant and asks that he be enjoined from paying the $300 to her husband. She also asks for possession of the household goods.

BUSINESSMEN'S VIEW IS HEARD AT DRY MEETING

"Fight to Last Ditch" Promised on Proposed Regulations

Washington, July 12.—American business sounded a warning against undue restrictions in the use of industrial alcohol at the National Prohibition Administrators Conference today.

A "fight to the last ditch" against proposed regulations which would hold manufacturers responsible for violations of the prohibition law by employees was promised by Henry H. Chatfield, of Elizabeth, N. J., representing the National Paint, Oil and Varnish Association.

"In these days when many prohibition agents themselves have gone wrong, no employer wants to be placed in a position where his permit is jeopardized or of being otherwise penalized for a violation of the law, attributable alone to the individual employes of a crooked employer," Chatfield declared.

"Permittees must faithfully discharge their obligation to exercise due diligence, but certainly there is no reason why they should be compelled to accept standards that might be set up to govern suspicious characters."

Regulations of this character must not be applied to reputable business men whose lawful operations must be promoted by the government in accordance with the law, according to Chatfield.

Bankers would refuse loans to manufacturers whose permits are placed in jeopardy by "any such unwarranted conditions," Chatfield continued in making a plea for close cooperation between the new system of prohibition and legitimate trade associations.

Daily Proverb—"Drunkness is an axe from which all vices are hatched."

There is one thing which may be said for the Columbus ball team; as a steady, consistent performer it is in a class by itself.

It's our firm conviction that Mr. Ford would experience a lot of difficulty, at this time, in leading a job as an observer.

Pricking one of her fingers on the spine of a catfish which she was removing from her hook while fishing, a young woman of Buda, Illinois, died of blood-poisoning. Has it not been said that in the midst of life we are in death?

There's one advantage the aviator has over the automobilist, his way isn't lined with "pick-ups" who often turn out to be "stick ups."

Ran Johnson having resigned, it may be said without prejudice to others yet in the game that baseball has lost by his passing from active connection a bulwark for squareness and honesty and a relentless foe of crookedness and jobbery.

We frankly admit that it's curiosity which prompts us to ask: Is the girl with the real seashore tan going to cover it up with the customary mask of red paint?

Just as likely as not the employee of the gas stations who went on strike up in Chicago never paused to consider the hardship they were working to the city's gentlemanly bootleggers and gunmen.

Let us not poke fun at the accordion playing contest in which 2,000 contestants engaged over in Belgium. We have had our old "addlers" contests right here at home.

While it may be true that the British delegation at Geneva can not be wholly satisfied, it probably would be reasonably content with a pact which gave Britain the widest latitude in cruiser construction and at the same time restricted construction by the United States and Japan.

A writer says it is impossible to exaggerate the importance of art in our lives. We invariably feel the same way every time we see a gold-back or other fine specimen of our paper currency.

As his wife resides with his parents, it can hardly be that young Cornelius Vanderbilt wants to divorce her to simplify his plan to pay off the million or two dollars he owes with the proceeds of the work of his pen.

Let us not be hasty in our judgment of the Mohammedans, who believe that the devil is in the radio. Some "dog of an infidel" may have invited them in to hear something "especially fine" and caused them to undergo an evening of static.

Pleasing News Stories.

We are always glad to publish a story like that in our issue of Tuesday telling of the prosperous condition of our local banking institutions. An increase of $229,566 in resources and $162,012 in deposits is pleasing. That the six banks of the city have resources of $9,385,410, over sixty-six per cent. of which is actively employed upon good security not only speaks for the prosperity of our banks, but also indicates a healthy business activity in the community. When the percentage of loans is in recession, it is an indication of business inactivity, and when the percentage is abnormally low it means business stagnation. There is no healthier condition than that which obtains when money is profitably employed.

And while on the subject of prosperity it may not be amiss to make reference to the news story carried in our issue of Monday announcing that the Huber plant was being operated at peak capacity to keep pace with orders on hand; that 300 men were being employed with the outlook excellent that operations would be continued throughout the year on the present schedule.

Last summer the Huber output was practically sold out, with the result that its plant was more than ordinarily active throughout the winter. At the present rate of demand for Huber manufactures, the indications are that the activity of last winter will be repeated which will mean much to the company's employees and prove of benefit to the city.

We rejoice over the prosperity of any local industry, but we are always especially pleased when the Huber company has a season successful beyond the ordinary. It was Marion's first big industrial concern and through its long course of successful business years has done much to make our city the thriving center of industry it is today. The Huber company and those in one way or another closely associated with it for years constituted the industrial mainstay of our city. It must be pleasing to all our citizens, as it is to us, to note the continuation of its business success year after year. We are sufficiently old-fashioned to treasure more than ordinarily such a time-tested, dependable institution and we glory in the success that it attains and the prosperity it enjoys.

Agricultural Sky Brightening.

We are in receipt of a letter from a well-known local citizen, who is in close touch with both our farming element and farm lands, in which he voices the interest taken by him to a recent editorial in these columns in which we sought to make plain that farm lands had reached the bottom; that the awful slump in values they had undergone in recent years was a thing of the past, and that they were again moving upward.

While manifesting approval of what was said, the writer brings out that we might have said still more, calling attention to figures published in the Federal Reserve Bulletin for May to demonstrate that farm products as well as farm lands are appreciating.

We would have been very glad had we known of the figures at the time of writing the editorial in question. They would have been very timely, and we agree with the writer of the letter that they would have made good his position that farm products are showing a decided upward trend. The Bulletin figures show that farm products show an increase from nineteen to twenty-six per cent. over 1926. Corn shows an increase of twenty-five per cent. Wheat has gained nineteen cents in the past eight weeks and oats are twenty-five per cent. over last year's prices. Later markets, the writer points out, are showing an increase over the Bulletin's report.

Although the letter is a personal one, we are going to take the liberty of quoting the three following paragraphs:

"There is no doubt that farm products are on the upward move and that farm land values will soon show a corresponding increase. Our farmers have long felt a discouraging influence hovering over them and from past disappointments are loath to believe any good thing coming their way.

"If you could see your way clear to give them the publicity of the recent Federal report, it would do much to bring a little happiness to them and a feeling of pride to be a land owner.

"A thing may be so, but, not knowing it, we wallow in our disappointments when we should be out rooting for our benefits. A good newspaper can make or break a community; it can bring happiness or gloom. Here's hoping for the bright side."

Without going into the merit of our correspondent's estimate of the power of the press, we are glad to agree with him that there is merit in his sizing-up of human nature. And we are glad to publish the figures on the staple farm products quoted. There is nothing we like better than offering that which produces cheer. Nothing is more repugnant to us than publishing that which has a tendency to spread gloom. And we are always glad to meet more than half way one like this correspondent who hunts for and brings out that which has a tendency to drive gloom away.

We agree with him, the agricultural sky is brightening.

Having tried out American planes going over, Chamberlin, Hyrd, Noville, Acosta and Balchen naturally favored the best also for their return and hence embarked upon the Leviathan.

We note that A. Lawrence Lowell, whoever he may be, says that "many of the hard problems of life are rendered less impenetrable by looking beyond them to a more distant object." And all these years we have been following that old one about never crossing the bridge till we come to it!

The feeling of the French toward Americans is said to be more friendly at present than at any time since the war, and if we can only get a certain newly-rich American who is showing a lot of interest in transatlantic flights to get out of that country speedily who knows but what the present pleasing condition may be prolonged?

A Turkish woman novelist, who has the heroine of her latest novel say that religion is more harmful than opium, is on trial in Stamboul on a charge of attacking religion. The Turkish law providing from two to six months' imprisonment for ridiculing or reviling any religion. If we had a law like that over here, half of us would be in court or in jail pretty much of the time.

A well-known educator says that "as an agency for character culture, the American public school is a mighty power." We should say it is. If baseball, foot-ball and basket-ball will not develop character, what will?

It might be well were all of us to ponder over a recent remark made by Ambassador Houghton—"Our foreign policy is, sooner or later, just what we as a people want it to be. Our foreign relations, like charity, begin at home." There's a lot of truth in that. As a people think and feel, so will their foreign policy be. It's the mass influence of the people at home which influences those to whom are submitted the handling of our affairs with other nations.

Vagrant Verse.

HELEN COMES HOME.

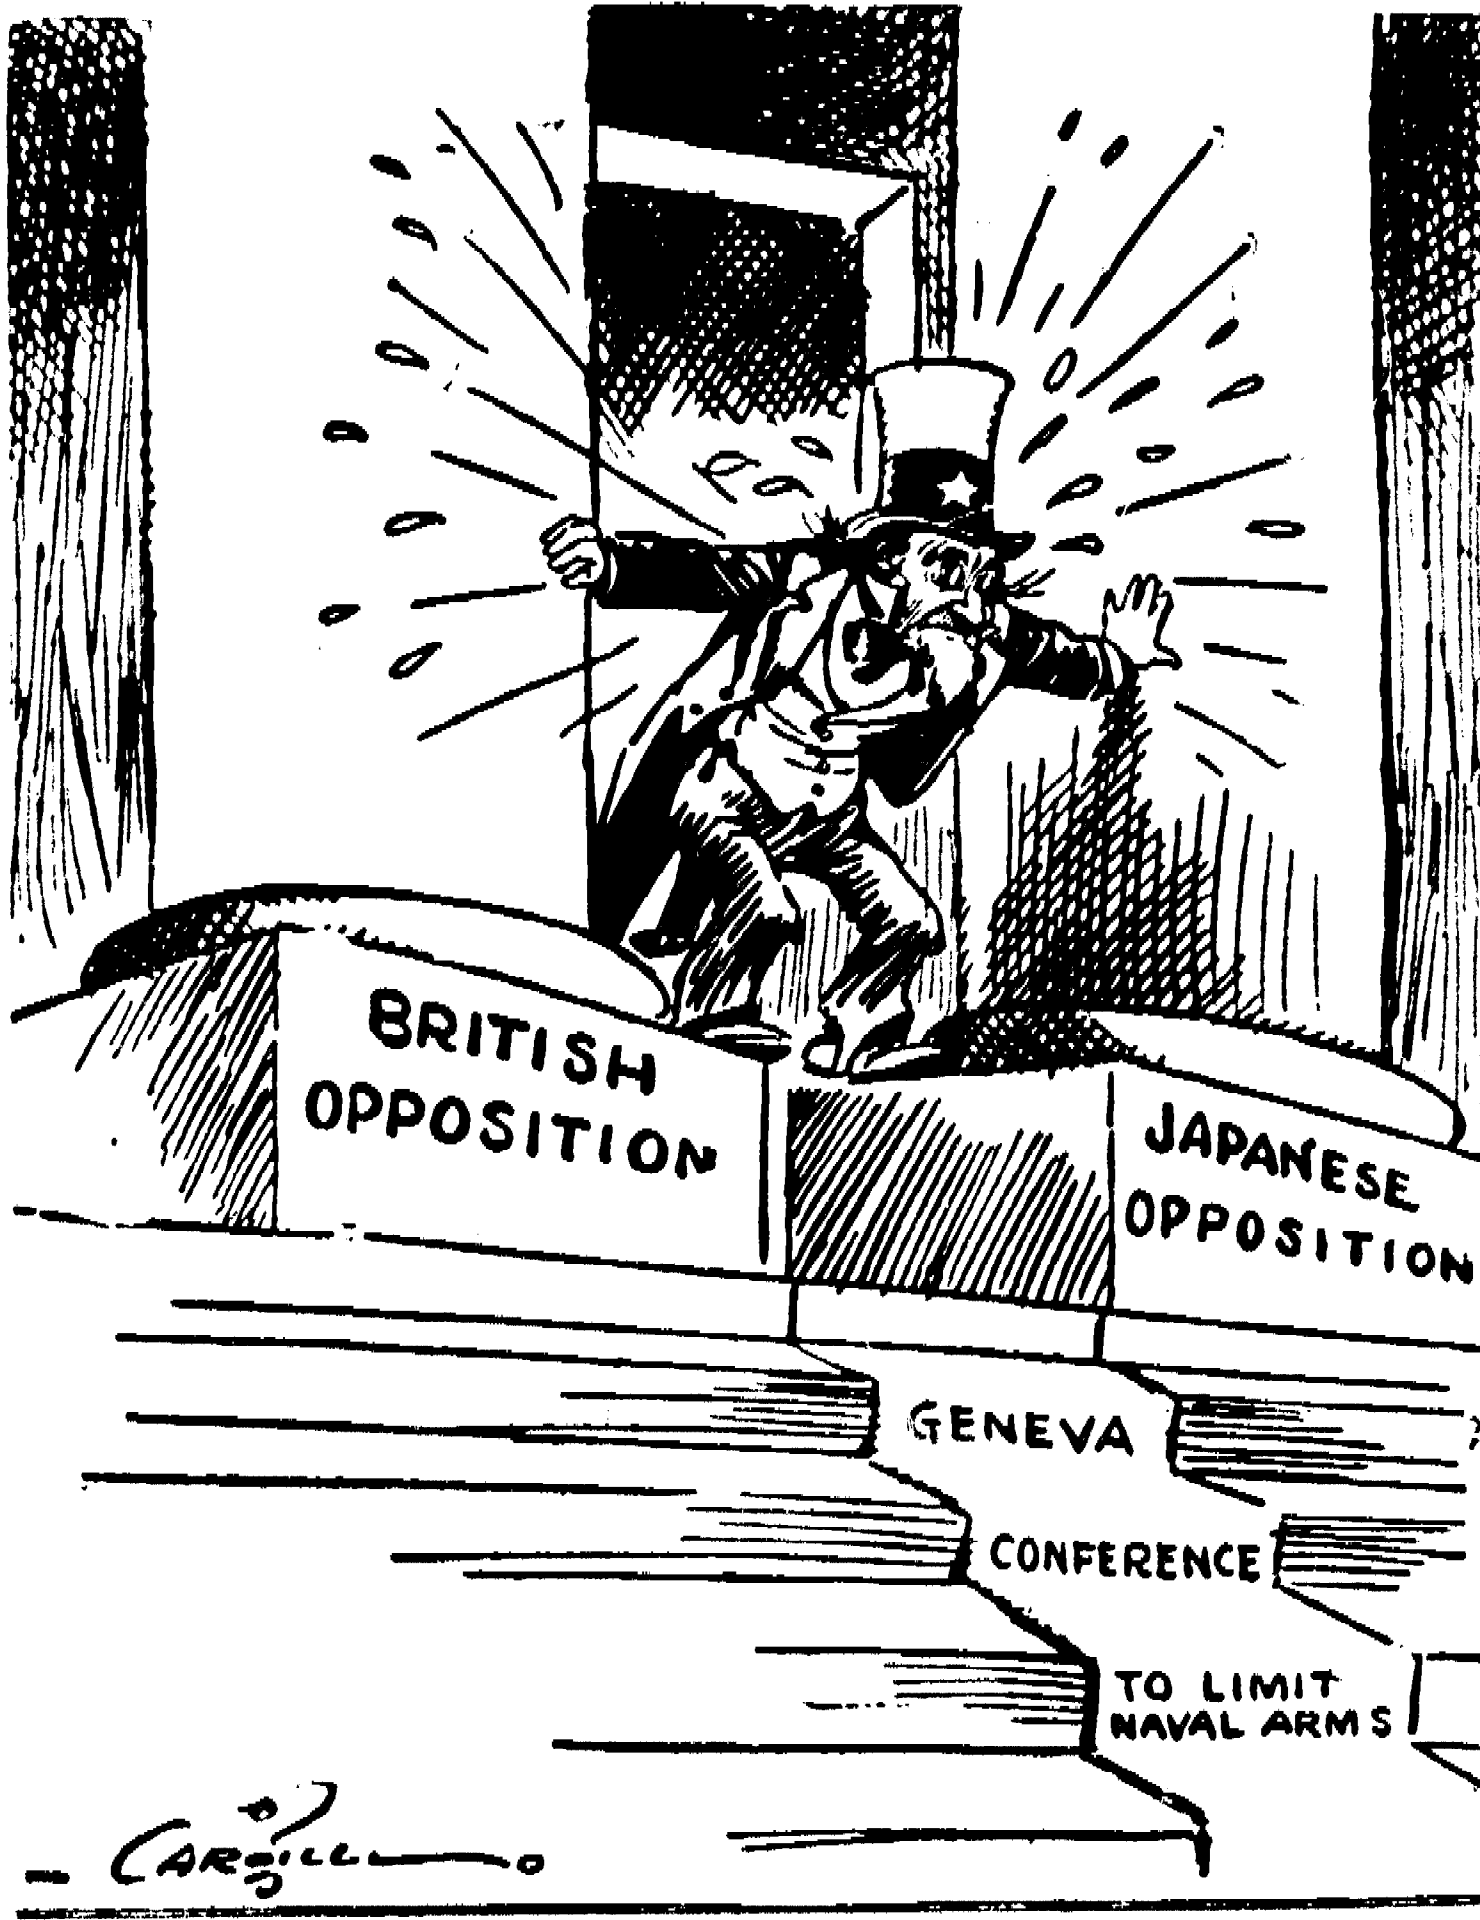

Helen comes home from the gray halls of learning.
 Mistress of sciences, isms and logics,
 All superficial accomplishments spurning.
 Quoting at will from a hundred anthologies,
 Helen comes home a full-fledged baccalaureate;
 Nothing on earth can bewilder or faze her;
 Fully approved by the whole professoriate,
 Which in small wonder, one thinks when he sees her.

Helen comes home in a great blaze of glory,
 Covered with honors unnumbered and various;
 Heads that no kudos should turn—being hoary—
 Lead the acclaim in a manner hilarious.
 Her comes home quite composed but arduous;
 Truly Solonic the air that envelopes her;
 Why she's Athens in campus vernacular.
 One knows instantly—like that!—when he hears her.

Helen comes home to the hearts that adore her,
 And—were we grown, do you think, attractive?
 All that we say or do seems to bore her;
 Helen, in short, is a bit supercilious.
 Through all the years that may be Helen's measure
 Ever our love shall remain undiminished;
 But while she's still our superlative treasure,
 We all liked her better before she was named!

UNCLE SAMSON.

Gains in Life Span.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Recently I had an interesting letter from a man living in Arkansas, calling attention to a statement I made regarding the duration of life. He referred to one of my articles in which it was stated that the average age in Washington's time was about thirty years while now it is fifty-six.

It must be admitted that many current statements about the duration of life are somewhat misleading. When we speak about the "expectation of life" we are referring to the average chance of a baby born today compared with the baby born in a different period of the world's history. As a matter of fact the improvement in the expectation of life is due largely to the better care of infants and of persons in old age. In the middle groups the chance of living is not materially greater than it was in the time of George Washington.

In short, when we talk averages, we are considering the whole human family and counting the period from birth to old age. It is quite probable that in what might be called "the age group of statesmen" there has been little change in the past hundred years.

My correspondent has given me certain figures. I have not corroborated them, but I assume they are correct. He says that the combined ages of the first seven presidents was 560 years, while the combined ages of the last seven presidents who died of natural deaths, amounted to 452 years. This means that the first seven presidents averaged almost seventeen years per man more than the last seven.

He refers to the signers of the Declaration of Independence and to the early United States senators who lived just as long as senators do today.

All these suggestions are well founded. But it is unfair to judge the race by taking samples from the comfortable economic class. The men who were conspicuous in the early history of this country were largely from well-to-do homes. They came from what may be called the "leisure" class. Their surroundings were conducive to long life.

The fact is, however, that the average man of Washington's time, and particularly the average commoner of that period, lived simpler lives than we do. While they lived longer lives than we do, not that attention to the early stages of disease which has so much to do with the prospect of continued life and physical usefulness.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

All of us are more interested in our personal affairs than in anything else. Might as well admit it. In our thinking we can approach our affairs negatively or we can approach them positively. In our thoughts we can dwell on our liabilities or we can dwell on our assets. We can make ourselves and others sad by the constant habit of listing the things we want and do not have. Let's approach it positively—and be constantly glad for the things we have been able to do.

It may be little enough, but there is always something very definite to be glad about.

A successful man talked to the writer not long ago about life's greatest satisfaction. What is it? Surely it does not consist in the accumulation of things. Does it not grow out of the sense of having done a good job at something?

Faced by a course that it is obvious you ought to pursue, you can either go through with it or fall by the way. It is much easier to fall. Going through with the course will probably be one of the sources of life's greatest satisfactions.

What is there better than the consciousness of a job well done?

If the average man didn't know any more about the condition of his business than he does the condition of his body, he would seem to be bankrupt.

"Audit your health," says Bundesen, health commissioner of Chicago.
 Going to the doctor early rather than late may not add more years to your life, but it will certainly add more life to your years.

Whether it be the things of the body, or the mind, or the spirit, we think too much of cure and too little of prevention.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., is right when he says college fees ought to be increased and more students ought to pay their way. In the old days few went to college, and the large number of those who did were preparing to preach or teach, and never could expect to earn much.

An increasing number of so-called students now go to college for a good time—for social reasons. Thousands of that sort are little benefited by college years. They should pay their way. And if the fees were increased the worth-while ones would find a way to pay.—Copyright, 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

MAJOR GENERAL MASON M. PATRICK.
 Mason Mathews Patrick was born at Lewisburg, West Virginia, December 13, 1863. He entered the army after his graduation from West Point in 1886 and advanced through the grades until he became a major general in the National army in 1915 and a major general in the United States army in 1921. Major General Patrick was chief engineer and director of construction and forestry operations for the A. E. F. in France, from 1917 to May, 1918, and chief of the A. E. F. air service until July, 1918. He was appointed chief of the air service in 1921 and reappointed in 1922.

General Patrick firmly believes that we are to have safe air transportation in the near future. Recently he said in an interview: "In ten years travel by air will be safer than any other method of transportation man employs."

"We measure this by the number of accidents for miles flown, and these figures prove the air is not so dangerous. Planes are better. Motors are better, and men know more about air travel than they did. It is all the pioneers who are the victims. In the early days of the railroads they passed through the same experience."

"As a boy I remember reading about railroad accidents almost every morning, but that has changed now."

"Recently accomplishments have shown conclusively that the oceans are shrinking and the public is getting alarmed."

"But I want to utter a word of warning. There are three dangers that will do more to hamper aviation than anything else."

"The first is that a great number of flying schools may spring up which will grind out pilots like the diploma mills grind out doctors. It takes time to learn to fly and some persons can never be fliers. I hope this danger will be safeguarded against."

"The second danger is from organization of too many aircraft companies without substantial financial backing. These concerns may spring up and sell stock to the public like the old-fashioned wells."

"The third danger is that smaller communities may get over-enthusiastic and try to build too many airports which, when built, would be idle. For such smaller places a community airport would be ideal, with several towns supporting it."

Legal Conundrum Decided in Fall-Doheny Decision

If Man Thinks He Can Commit Crime He's Guilty, Says Justice

BY CHARLES F. STEWART
WASHINGTON, June 13.—In all seriousness this legal conundrum was put up to Justice William H. Taft of the District of Columbia supreme court.

"If a man commits a crime he has no power to commit, is he guilty?" To which Justice Taft replied: "Yes, if he thought he could commit it."

THIS is no imaginary case. It's the Fall-Doheny case.

The late President Harding signed an order transferring a lot of government oil land from the navy to the interior department.

Albert B. Fall, then secretary of the interior, handed some of it—the so-called Elk Hills reserve—over to the E. L. Doheny interests. The government accuses the two Dohenys, father and son, of paying $100,000 to Fall to do this—a bribe, the government asserts.

Now it's proposed to try the two Dohenys on a charge of bribing Fall and Fall on a charge of accepting a bribe.

BUT in the meantime the government set up the claim:

That President Harding had no right the rock they could see a great hole cut into the Berber ranks, could see bodies fly in a dozen directions, then the scene was shrouded in a pall of thick smoke that rose swiftly, shutting the scene from their vision.

AUTO CLUB URGED TO ARRANGE ORPHANS' DAY

American Association Suggests Motor Outing for Wards of Organizations Here

Officers of the Marion Auto Club have under consideration a communication received from headquarters of the American Automobile Association urging clubs throughout the country to plan an "Orphans' Day" program for the entertainment of children who are wards of state, municipal, fraternal and religious organizations.

The proposal is said to have met with general approval of auto clubs throughout the country and may result in an annual nationwide event.

The communication was sent to 600 clubs which are members of the national association. Many of these clubs already observe Orphans' Day each year by holding a motor outing for the youngsters.

"The many clubs which make Orphans' Day a yearly event in their programs have no difficulty in getting the support of their members to make the occasion a success," the communication states. "The club which appeals to its members for the first time undoubtedly find them equally as willing to give of their time, their cars and their money to add such an occasion to the club's activities."

HOW CAN WOMEN KEEP WELL ENOUGH TO GET UP SINGING?

"My mother-in-law," says Mrs. Belle Thompson, 2101 E. 4th St., East Lake, Tenn., "told me of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and Lydia E. Pinkham's Sensitive Wash. I took six bottles of the Vegetable Compound. I could sleep and would get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children, and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sensitive Wash. It does more good than the treatments. It keeps me up my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."

Another Happy Woman

"I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the Daily News and I gave away and began to take the medicine. After the first bottle I began to feel better and after the second I felt like a new woman. I could sleep and I could get up in the morning singing and feeling fine. I am the mother of three children, and always after the babies came I had to take treatments, but I can truly say that this last time I have only used the Sensitive Wash. It does more good than the treatments. It keeps me up my feet to care for my children and I do most of my work. I feel it my duty to let you know how both of the medicines have helped me."

MISS LINCOLN'S AMBITIONS

MY apprehensive mental question concerning the time and place of Philip Veritzen's next conference with me over the work we had not finished upon the inn balcony remained vexingly with me through the little flurry of our departure from the inn and the first few miles of our journey cityward.

I was supposed to be on a vacation as far as appearing at the Veritzen office were concerned, although I had however, and that was to fortify myself with the old proverb about crossing bridges. Indeed, Mr. Veritzen, himself, gave me no chance for reflection. As if the subject had a fascination for him which drew him back to it, we had traveled but a few miles before he began to speak again of the Lincoln, our new neighbors at the Larches, of whom I had talked to him and to Lillian upon our journey up to the inn, and during the dinner.

"This Miss Lincoln," he said, meditatively, "must be a very unusual young woman, from your description. I have quite a vivid mental picture of her. I really should like to see her in order to find out how true to life your word picture is."

"She would like to see you," I stressed the pronouns strongly, with a reminiscent little smile. "She is as attracted to a young woman as it ever has been my luck to encounter, and she evidently believes that it needs only a nod of your head to make any girl a theatrical star."

"She isn't as far wrong on that," Lillian interposed, with an impudent grin at her old friend. "Only, of course, the nod doesn't come until Phil is worn out from teaching, and the girl almost dead from the rigid routine of work he maps out for her."

I knew that beneath her banter there was a deliberate reference to Mary Harrison. She did not wholly approve of Mary, but she shared my indignant belief that the rigorous discipline Philip Veritzen had imposed upon the girl had been responsible in part for her escape as the masked dancer.

Mr. Veritzen frowned. "I never select a girl for a dramatic career," he said stiffly. "Unless I am satisfied that she can stand the discipline. If she breaks down it is always due to some outside distraction of her own which added to her work, makes her burden too heavy."

There was something in his tone, or so I imagined, which made me long to glance at Lillian, but at the same time made me afraid to do so. Was it possible that he suspected—Lillian's bantering cut his pictures short.

"Come down from the roof, old girl," he said laughingly. "It's almost Thanksgiving time, and you know there's no use trying to high hat me. I'm a mean man."

Unexpectedly, he laughed. He patently shared the conviction of all Lillian Underwood's friends, that it is utterly futile to get angry at her for the audacious things she says or for Does a man like a "brainy" woman?

A MAN will tell you he likes a "brainy" woman, of course! No man who claims any brains himself will say otherwise.

A man will even try to prove that he's attracted to brains by pointing to Jean or Lucy—good friends of his, who boast all sorts of college degrees!

But don't let that mislead you! Jean is an extremely personable young woman, you'll notice. And did you ever see Lucy fox-trot? She can dance even better than she can talk politics.

Brains aren't enough!

No, brains alone never drew a man to a woman! He may like her better because of her cleverness. But what appealed to him first—whether he knew it or not—was her charm.

Charm—and youthful zest for life—the ability to make people love you and enjoy themselves better because they're with you. You can't be a truly happy and successful woman without them—even with the best brains in the world!

Your skin feels so youthful with Camay

Your skin seems fairly to glow under the soft lather. Now dash on the rinsing water—see how quickly the suds vanish! Your face and hands come from the suds feeling just baby-like in their suppleness, very fresh, new!

In a word Camay is so lovely that it makes you feel lovelier to use it. You'll want to try it right away—today! Ask for it at your druggist's or your department store. Or let your grocer pick out Camay's dairy wrapper on his special shelf of fine toilet soaps. See a customer very low price for a soap as luxuriously fine as Camay.

What is CAMAY?

The makers of Camay have perfect Camay for regular use after each soap in the morning and evening to give you the best possible skin. They don't say that!

They say every woman who regularly uses Camay gets the cleanest skin. By using Camay you don't only have lovely skin, but you also have perfect complexion, they say.

These women cannot be happy-day are only to be happy. And they are the women who say that to be happy.

Camay makes you feel lovelier to use it. You'll want to try it right away—today! Ask for it at your druggist's or your department store. Or let your grocer pick out Camay's dairy wrapper on his special shelf of fine toilet soaps. See a customer very low price for a soap as luxuriously fine as Camay.

Blemished Skin Clears Up Quickly

Blemishes and wind are not always so kind to us. When dainty complexion and hands are exposed to their burning and roughening effect they become freckled, tanned or discolored; usually in spots.

A minute's care will whiten the skin again. Simply squeeze the juice of two lemons into a three-ounce bottle of Orchard White, which you can get from your nearest store, and massage the complexion and hands with this lotion.

You will be delighted with the way it clears your skin and revives its youthful charm.—Adv.

CHICHESTER'S PILLS

DUCKY

It was a deep and mooted question in the minds of the spectators at the baseball game Sunday and also in the craniums of other lovers of the sport in the city, as to the successor to Francis W. Bacon in the management of the Marion Athletics baseball team.

Even though the question is important enough to be given a great amount of consideration, officials have cautioned fans to stop the worry and not believe any reports about his successor until that individual does not appear until the ball park on Sunday afternoon.

For Bacon, the player-manager, evidently likes his job as well as he is liked by the fans, and that is saying a great deal. He declares that he will continue as manager of the team unless his work takes him into territory where he will not be able to return to Marion for the game.

Plans Not Announced
Bacon, with his resignation at the Marion Steam Shovel Co., taking effect Aug. 1, has not yet announced his plans for the future. Should he continue his residence in Marion, as was rumored not long ago, the action will be welcomed by sport lovers of the city.

Officials of the Marion Athletic Association are as much mystified as to the man who could fill Bacon's shoes as the spectators, and will not even as much as hint a possibility. It is likely, however, that if Bacon calls, the next manager will be picked from the ranks of the team.

In the ranks of that team are nine good ball players, but possible, and it is likely, that not all would be level headed candidates for the position. Joe Conroy, a veteran of the diamond, a former catcher and now initial teacher of the local squad, judging from his actions on the field and his friendship with his fellow players, ought to be a strong candidate. Joe hits and fields well and keeps up the "big noise" in the field.

Other possible candidates, supposing of course that the manager is chosen from the list of players, might include Buckland, third baseman and lead-off man, Risor, short-stop, or some member of the outfield.

In spite of all the hallelujahs of other baseball teams who have played in Marion this season, we claim that the best sign yet to face the Marion Athletics, judging from former records, for next Sunday afternoon.

Their victory list not only includes the Pittsburgh Pirates but an All-Star team of the American League, both of whom they defeated last year. The players are all colored and have been playing together for the last four years. Last year they won 140 games and lost 15.

A sport's section of any newspaper today would not be complete without the latest news of the Lou Gehrig-Babe Ruth battle for home run honors. After training last week the Babe dropped into his own. Saturday and clouted two over the fence only to be tied again by Lou at Detroit, Monday afternoon.

When Ruth, the veteran, attempts to do the most consistent hitting but after the Babe forgets ahead of the youngster, Lou, usually announces his intention of staying in the race by tying the Bambino.

Babe, following his homer yesterday, is again playing one ahead of his teammate. We don't predict anything as to the outcome of this race, except an increase in the salary of the youngster, which is bound to come to anyone who deals seriously in four batters.

Baptists and Lutherans Defeated But Retain Lead

Epworth, No. 2 and Reformed Outfits Repel Onslaught of Church League Leaders

Lee Street Presbyterian Squad Halts First Presbyterian, 8 to 3; Calvary No. 2 Wins Second Contest of Season Over United Brethren, 1 to 0

While one of the leaders of League, Trinity Baptist, was getting the white-wash administered them at the Central Junior High diamonds at the hands of Epworth, No. 2, the other holder of the first position, the Lutherans, were getting the drubbing of their lives at the Marion Steam Shovel grounds by the practically unbeaten of First Reformed.

The Baptists, highly touted, being tied for first place in the league, were beaten, and the brilliant Gamble allowed the losers but one hit, and that a single. The Lutherans were on the little end of a 6 to 3 count and appeared mighty lucky to be there.

With the defeat of both of the leaders, the league standing remains the same for the upper half of the group only with a smaller percentage for the first two teams. The victory of the First Reformed squad brought the team into undisputed possession of sixth place and with Presbyterian, No. 2, on its defeat by Lee Street, 8 to 3, dropping into seventh, was the only change in the league standing.

Calvary, No. 2, won its second contest of the year by overwhelming the United Brethren outfit, 1-0, holders of fifth place in the conference, in the remaining contest, last night, Lee Street and Epworth are in the tie for second place with six wins and four defeats. Calvary, No. 2, is still holder of the cellar position.

Although he looked seven feet high, and struck out 12 batters, Gamble gave but one hit to the fighting Baptists and that to W. Merchant in the third inning. His ball was baffling to the losing team which had a bad day in the field as well as at bat.

Gamble, besides pitching the Methodist record of the winning team's tally. The Methodist squad were recorded in the second and third frames when the Baptist fighters appeared to slay. Jones pitched a good game but was given poor support at critical points of the contest.

The dope bucket was kicked over with a splash when the Lutherans emerged from the fray with the Reformed team, losers. Although numerous hits were garnered off pitcher Weckmiller and the younger team walked off the field with the big piece of the meat.

The first score by the First Reformed squad was made in the opening session and it was followed by another when Coleman and Klein began knocking the ball around the edge of the field. The Lutherans came back in the third and managed to tie the score and it remained in that condition until the first half of the fourth when two more were scored by the winners. The losers ran another score the rubber in the fifth but First Reformed again came back and widened the gap with two more.

Lee Street Presbyterian team apparently had no trouble in holding the upset club to nine in three runs while helping themselves to eight of the coveted tallies. Sage was on the mound for the First Presbyterians while Burke pitched the Lee Streeters to victory.

The one run of the Calvary-United Brethren game was registered at the start of the sixth frame. Hits in the game were scattered and few. Cliné pitched for Calvary while Zupanec tossed the home side for the Brethren.

FIELDER GETS TWO
In a recent cricket game near London a fieldman, running for a catch, caught two balls, the second having been hit by a batsman on an adjoining pitch.

lead. Shocker allowed the Indians only seven scattered hits.

Washington continues to play winning ball, downing Detroit 9 to 6, but the Senators can hardly be regarded as a threat to the Yanks as they are 112 points behind. The third place White Sox went on a hitting spree, driving Remmel and Page off the mound and winning from the Athletics, 8 to 5.

The Red Sox surprised no one by losing again, St. Louis taking them 6 to 5. Sisler's home run in the ninth with two on spelled bad news for Boston.

NORTHERN STARS SCORE VICTORY OVER LAWLERS

Corwin Gets Three Hits and Two Runs as Grocery Team Loses, 8 to 7

Lawler Bros. baseball team suffered an 8 to 7 defeat at the hands of the North End Stars at the Silk Mills diamonds, Monday night.

Corwin, the losing pitcher, was the star of the contest, scoring two runs and working the horseshoe for three hits. Hickman and Pangborn were also credited with two safeties each.

Heavy slugging by Peters, shortstop, Walters, pitcher and R. Walters, left fielder for the Stars was responsible for the victory. Peters scored twice as did R. Walters and Wilson. The latter player was walked twice.

Five errors made by the Lawler squad gave many extra bases to the winning team when they occurred with runners on the sacks.

The Lawler team will clash with the Silk Mills baseball team on the Silk Mills diamond, at 6:15 o'clock, Thursday night.

Dempsey's Manager to Ask State Board to Force Sharkey to Wear Painted Waist

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

Saratoga Springs, N. Y., July 13.—The only thing that stands between a victory for Jack Dempsey over Jack Sharkey next week is a bucket of paint. You can take that from Mr. Leo Flynn, who is doing the official gibbering for the man that used to be Manana Mauler. Mr. Flynn is not so particular whether you take it or not, but he is insistent that the New York Boxing Commissioners take it.

With this in view he is going to invade New York tomorrow or the next day and lay down before these august individuals the most extraordinary demand that ever took form in the brain of a fight manager.

Mr. Flynn is going to demand that the commissioners compel Sharkey to wear a painted waist line at the proper position when he climbs into the ring against the ex-heavyweight champion of the world.

"I don't want to see this fight end in a foul," says Mr. Flynn. "If it is to end in a foul I want to be sure that the ground rules are correct and that the punches are really low."

Sharkey Has Habit, Claim

Mr. Flynn, who is a manager of the old school, points out that Sharkey, like other modern fighters has a custom of coming into the ring wearing trunks up around his chin. He makes the sky inference that Sharkey has such a sartorial scheme in mind.

Mr. Flynn was asked if he is serious about the painted waist line.

"I'm going to ask the commission to paint a line around Sharkey's midriff," he said, "and I'm going to tell them that I will have one painted on Dempsey's midriff at the same spot."

Dempsey, sitting at the dinner table while Mr. Flynn was making his demand, said:

"That's all right with me," he said.

Herman Fired

A ripple of discontent broke out in the camp today when "Kid" Herman, the veteran middleweight who has been connected with the Dempsey comeback for years, left in a huff.

It was announced at the camp that Herman had been fired because he was no longer able to give Dempsey a stiff workout.

Herman had a different version.

"I hit Dempsey on the chin the day I worked out with him and he went back on his heels. He doesn't want to fight me in his camp any more. They make him look bad. He's all washed up," Dempsey was inclined to laugh Herman off in a low muffled voice. "He used to be good but he's gone," he said.

Ban Predicts Third League As He Prepares to Quit Job

Chicago, July 13.—"Some persons have expressed surprise that I turned down $320,000 called for in my contract," said Ban Johnson, president of the American League, as he prepared here today to step down from the position he has held for many years.

"I hope the American League owes me something," he added, "but whatever it is, if anything, it couldn't be paid in money."

Johnson said he was glad the load had been lifted from his shoulders. Thirty-four years of striving to make baseball the greatest of American sports have added care and worries to the ball czar.

He predicted that within the next few years a third major league would be formed.

"I haven't any hard feeling for the club owners who thought I was too old and that they needed a new leader," Johnson said.

"Both leagues face a grave danger. They may get too cocksure of themselves; they may forget that other influences are attempting to make baseball a hippodrome and not a sport."

SERGEANT SAMMY GETS DECISION OVER CALLAHAN

Fidel La Barba Retains Championship by Walloping Pal Moore

Chicago, July 13.—Mushy Callahan, Junior welterweight Champion of the World, is convinced today that he still is an underdog in the school of welterweights that he has no business hobnobbing with upper classmen.

Mushy was helped to this decision last night by Sergeant Sammy Baker, of New York, who engaged the Junior, champion in the 10-round final of the American Legion's Benefit show in Cubs park.

After punnelling Callahan around at will, Sammy sounded taps with a series of right crosses to the head and jaw. It was toward the end of the ninth round, with Mushy out on his feet, that Referee Dave Barry stepped in and called a halt.

Fidel La Barba, World's Flyweight Champion, was too fast for the Ancient Pal Moore, Chicago Bantamweight, in the ten round semi-final. Moore was hopelessly outclassed, but La Barba could not put over the finishing punch.

Although the show featured two World's champions, neither had his title at stake. Both Callahan and La Barba fought their respective opponents at catch weights.

"Here, Mr. Walker, this tobacco ought to be good enough for you!"

SUBSTANTIAL BUYING DEVELOPS IN MARKET

United States Steel Reaches
New High for Movement at 125

MARKETS AT A GLANCE
Railroad stocks, firm; industrial stocks, steady; domestic bonds, steady; call money, four per cent;

grain steady; copper steady; all slightly irregular; cotton steady; rubber steady; sugar steady; pig iron easy; foreign exchange steady.

New York, July 13.—Substantial buying developed in the stock market today, sending prices higher after an irregular early trade. One of the features was the strength shown by United States Steel which advanced two points to 125, a new high for the present movement.

The sharp upswing in steel had a stimulating effect upon other stocks, some of which showed a tendency to weaken shortly after the opening. The active buying of steel was attributed in some quarters to the belief of important interests that the corporation's earnings for the second quarter will make an unexpectedly favorable showing.

Bull pools were active in a number of industrial specialties and bid them up over two points. Prominent in this group were Brush Terminal, Erie
Steam Ship, Fox Film, Lewis, Inc.,
U. S. Industrial Alcohol, U. S. Cast Iron Pipe, Gulf States Steel and Universal Pipe and Radiator.

Profit taking developed, however, in some of the issues that had been bid up actively. American Car & Foundry, Matheson Alkali and Pathe Exchange declined one to two points. Collins Accumbank broke four points on the announcement of the offering of new preferred stock, but later recovered part of the loss.

Rails were in excellent demand due to the statement that freight car loadings, although slightly under last year's total for the period, were 1,021,262, an increase of 3,066 cars over the previous year.

Investment buying resulted in sharp upturns in a number of railroad stocks.
Atlantic Coast Line and Louisville &
Nashville were leaders in the group, both advancing over three points. The latter stock attained a new peak of 148 1/2. Buying of steel in these two leading issues was stimulated by rumors of a pending merger. Other rails that advanced were Atchafalaya, Chesapeake &
Ohio, Norfolk & Western, Wabash,
Gulf, Mobile & Northern, Peoria &

Chicago & Great Western.
Southern Pacific reached a new top of 119 5/8 but its gain was only a fraction.

65 Per Cent of Homes Here Are Owned by Occupants

MARION, with its population of 24,320 inhabitants might well be called a city of home owners, according to a recent check of the situation. For a number of years the slogan of Marion residents has been to own their own home, until now the city, with its approximately 7,000 homes ranks among the foremost in the state in the list of "home-owning" citizens.

A check of the situation recently showed that 65 per cent of the homes in Marion are owned by the occupants and this, according to

ENGINEER RESIGNS

Frank Renzenberger, Quits Marion Steam Shovel Co.

Frank Renzenberger, former assistant chief engineer of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and employed during the last few years as sales engineer, has resigned from the company's service after having been connected with its office forces more than 30 years. His resignation became effective yesterday.

Mr. Renzenberger, who resides on the Richland-pk. three miles southwest of the city, stated that he has not decided upon his plans for the future. He expects to continue in engineering work real estate dealers, in a high average in home ownership. Factors in this are first of all the desire for this as a part of the steady industrial situation and the attractive payment plans offered and the comparative low taxes.

Marion also ranks high in the percentage of modern utilities, which is an indication of the city's prosperity. Telephones, which have become a part of the necessary equipment in the modern home, number 6,430, according to the directory issued recently by the Ohio Associated Telephone Co. This number is exclusive of the 1,315 phones listed for business purposes.

A check on the gas consumers in the city showed approximately 7,800 while the electric meters listed totaled 9,250. There are also about 6,000 water meters listed in the city.

The city's postal system also is one of the most extensive of any in cities of the size of this, reports showing that aside from the 1,200 business stops, city mail carriers have listed 8,453 stops in the residential districts.
